The Intergenerational School connects, creates and guides a multigenerational community of lifelong learners and spirited citizens. It services students K-8 with an innovative development approach that includes real life experiences and community relationships. The Intergenerativity Project was a month long collaboration between the Intergenerational School community-board members, mentors, students, teachers and students, as well as the Story of Bridge Theater Art Company. Using the Story Bridge process, multiple stories were collected from our community members ages 6-90 and were brought to life in an interactive place that featured a promenade of vignettes (with our own students, parents, and volunteers as actors) and a community of dance for all participants. The Intergenerational Schools are also recipients of a national generation-especially seniors and youth-bring about positive, lasting changes in their communities.
