Jason Sitomer from Charter Impact presented an update on the board-approved budgets for the current fiscal year and any material changes to expenses and/or revenue.

Oceanside saw a $266,000 increase to revenue versus last month brought on by a larger-than-expected COLA increase from the state and an increase in the nutrition program.

Orange County saw a $155,000 increase to revenue versus last month brought on by a larger-than-expected COLA increase from the state and an increase in the nutrition program.

South Bay saw a $120,000 increase to revenue versus last month brought on by a larger-than-expected COLA increase from the state and an increase in the nutrition program.

B. Organization Update

Deputy Director Andrew Crowe presented the academic data update from CAASPP testing for all three Scholarship Prep schools. Across the state, schools saw a decrease in overall performance as did Scholarship Prep. In Orange County, Scholarship Prep is still outperforming the surrounding school district but saw a drop in performance but with Scholarship Prep's service demographic being a higher rate of McKinney-Vento students, those student's performance far outpaces the school district.

Board Treasurer John Ing asked how Scholarship Prep's learning model may have been disproportionately affected by the pandemic in regard to academic performance. Deputy Director Andrew Crowe answered that Scholarship Prep's project-based learning model is built around answering a central question across weeks at a time and the disruption to learning because of quarantine protocols, distance learning, and other variables really affected Scholarship Prep.

In Oceanside, Scholarship Prep saw similar trends but Scholarship Prep's test scores did not drop as dramatically as the surrounding school district and Scholarship Prep increased the gap between the school district and subgroups. Of note, Oceanside saw half the rate of chronic absenteeism as the surrounding district.

In South Bay even though overall the campus underperformed the surrounding middle schools (about 15 schools), across subgroups Scholarship Prep outperformed the surrounding schools. Andrew Crowe noted that this school has really only had about half a year of uninterrupted in-person instruction even though it has been open for 3 years.
