III. Heat Map Analysis

A. Heat Map Analysis

Todd Sumner invited the group to work in groups of three, changing partners after each round. There were three rounds of discussion with each round addressing one of the three themes from the October Heat Map - Capacity, Cost Benefit, Impacts on Staff. Groups discussed these two questions in each round.

1. How likely is this theme to create a problem?
2. How significant would the impact of that problem be?

Using a Punnett Square, after each round, individuals stood in the quadrant which reflected where their hearts/minds were on the questions for that theme...

Following the exercise, Todd invited members to ask questions that had come up as a result of the exercise or since the October meeting. Todd recorded the questions as they
