III. Anti-Racism and Transformative Justice Work

One idea is to start a Book Club on The Four Pivots by Shawn Ginwright

- Jason started a healing pages book club at NWYS. WIHS students are invited to join the book club.
- Bellingham Public Library might be able to assist with library kits.
- Whatcom CARE has books available as well; resources might be available through them.

Action item: Nasreen will investigate resources for the Board book club.

Another idea is to share openly as a Board with each other and share resources.

Student leadership requested Board presence in this work. Discussed aligning our learning opportunities with staff, teachers, parents, students, allies, etc.

Board check-in: Anonymous survey to check in with how we're feeling about doing this work together.

Action item: Nasreen will put together a survey prior to our next Board meeting.

Another idea is to have a student representative attend the Board meetings as one way to have direct input, possibly in a rotating position. We need clear parameters for the student rep's role.
