- Staff transitions: Data & Curriculum coaches on Upper & Lower Campuses
- Professional development focus for 2022-2023: "Back to Basics": responsive classrooms, school culture, vision of teaching excellence & DEI vision statement
- GLOBE AC reports on behavior data annually at end of SY
- Key questions:
 - What is the trend of in- and out-of-school suspensions and expulsions?
 - What differences are observed by subgroups, especially race/ethnicity?
 - What can be done to bring greater equity in student discipline?
 - Many schools/districts observe racial disparities in discipline, where students of color make up a disproportionate share of the disciplined population.
 - School leaders nationwide seek opportunities to reduce racial disparities in discipline.

Student Behavior at GLOBE

School discipline data from 2017 to 2022 was presented. Disparities in race/ethnicity observed in five-year span, but not in 2021-2022 year.

- New approaches to behavior and discipline have been proposed to reduce racial inequities in behavior

- Some approaches include: social-emotional learning (SEL) programs and restorative practices/justice
- May not, on their own, reduce racial disparity gaps, but may reduce suspensions overall
- Next steps: 1) consider alternative strategies to reduce suspensions - e.g. restorative practices - that are culturally responsive; 2) consider examining ways to make race and racial disparities at forefront of conversations on discipline; and 3) emphasis on trusting relationships between students, parents, and teachers - not just the disciplined

Spring MAP data was presented. Improvement from 2020-2021 to 2021-2022 in both math and reading scores. Ninety percent of GLOBE students projected at or above Developing compared to 71 percent of state and 51.1 percent of DCSD. Strive to ensure growth consistent across subgroups.
