III. Special Reports

A. Capital Campaign

Alexander Haas - Jerry & Jeff

How to layer a capital campaign on what is already being done. Completed Campaign Strategy Study.

Recommendations based on what was shared earlier:

- Do not recommend launching an $8M campaign because of no upper level gifts typically seen on an $8M campaign, constituents desire more information around charter schools and funding sources; need to focus on developing relationships

Recommends to move forward with some quiet focused fundraising for $1M.

- One or two projects related to the new elementary campus with a goal of $500K
- Small committee (4-6 members) with Executive Director and a few other members
- Detailed campaign plan for things that are of most importance
- 5- to 6-figure donations
- Board expectation to participate in capital campaign at 100%
- Capital committee should continue to revisit the preliminary goal to determine final goal of campaign

Next Steps:

- Follow up with those interviewed to further develop relationships and pitch for specific project(s)
- Develop communication plan
- Emphasize importance of ongoing annual support

L. Norton asked about timing. Response: Getting back to interviewees should be in the next few months; moving forward with the capital committee/plan should be over this upcoming year

It is recommended that GLOBE hire a staff member to lead the development efforts and to focus on developing relationships. Strengthen and grow a gifts campaign.

Long-term fixed rate bonds

Bonds can be sold to various types of investors

Bond rating to be received on Wed, Jan 31

Appears that the available debt is within range

Importance of having a good relationship with Moody's so that if GLOBE goes back to the market, there may be good standing towards a future rating.

A. McMillon asked the penalty of breaking covenants. Response: If we miss the cash on hand covenant gives investors the right to institute a financial consultant to make recommendations for how we can get into good standing. If breaking the 1.1x Max Annual Debt Service Coverage, a majority of investors would need to agree on an intervention.

D. Reynolds stated there is an annual audit in November and they will be sent to investors so they know how the bond investment stands.
