B. New Business

- Summary of Key Points

- Ken Martin from Martin CPA was present to review the audit scope of work and pre-work required to begin the process. The audit will not get underway until later this spring.
- Sometime in June, KG will meet with Mr. Martin to get a sense of what records they have and what records we need for audit purposes.
- July 15th is the last payday for teachers before the next school year.
- Harmony spoke to Nick (with the State Charter School District) and noticed that some money was missing, but will be deposited by the beginning of next week.
- Harmony gives KG the expected allotment every month and daily balance updates.
- We should be receiving $9,000 for food reimbursement by next week.
- We are waiting on reimbursements from claims 7 and 8, totaling $176,883.22. They are coming in slowly.
- We do not get reimbursed for SPED which is about $3,000/month. We were able to claim some back on the IDEA grant.
- In the works of figuring out work agreements for next year. June 22, 2022, will be the last working day for staff and teachers. July 15, 2022, will be the day everyone will come back and new teachers will not get a paycheck for a month due to 2 weeks in arrears.
- Our attorney has encouraged a delayed revamp of the pay schedule for 2022-23.
- Having to make teachers wait a month for their first paycheck may not be the best idea considering that could be a make-or-break type situation for many people.
- Voting will occur soon to figure out how many positions to add in order to grow. Looking at it per child and not per grade.
- $500,000 in people costs and roughly $1M in start-up construction costs
- Need to understand there will be some sunk costs that we cannot recoup – our Director in Residence position is a good example of this.
- Long term, a CFO is more cost-effective than a consultative service.
- 92% of staff returning and 97% of students returning next year.
- 90% of our Scholars are hitting their growth goals.
