Three teachers, Gina Brindisi (kindergarten), Ashley Shaw (second grade), and Meaghan Graul (6th grade), joined the board meeting to share their experiences this year and answer questions from the board. They shared how hard it has been, especially in the kindergarten, and their concern over the gaps in learning they see. They also shared that students, families, teachers, and staff members have all been resourceful and collaborative. They shared that some families are clearly struggling and that some had asked them about if or when the school would be providing in-person instruction. Despite this, they shared that families have regularly communicated their gratitude to them for the work they are doing.

During the board question and answer session, the board discussed with teachers what elements of this year might be transferable to future years, whether there were ways to improve technology to reduce technology issues, and the school's plan for pacing of instruction next year.
