Maine charter school offers blacksmithing classes

By Logan Hoffman

Published: May. 21, 2024 at 6:08 PM EDT|Updated: 21 hours ago

HINCKLEY, Maine (WABI) - It's is a sound you may not expect in a typical high school classroom.

"I love the opportunity, it makes it like like this, that's something that's special about the school is I get to actually come outside and physically do the things that normally we just look at the paper to learn," said Alicia Reynolds, student.

Since the school's founding, a local blacksmith partnered with MEANS.

Richard Tessier volunteered his time for years, teaching students and keeping the trade going.

Until one day, he received some devastating news.

"Unfortunately, Dick was diagnosed with cancer, and understood that he was not going to be able to continue doing that for our students, but really wanted to ensure that the program continued into the future," said Matt Newberg, head of school.

Tessier unfortunately lost his battle to cancer in spring of last year, but his legacy lives on everyday.

Before his passing, he donated tools and brought a set of plans to house a blacksmith program at the school.

"Our hope is that every means student will be exposed to blacksmithing in the four years that they're here," Newberg said.

And the impact has been substantial. Tucker Emery says he looks forward to school more because of the class.

"Every time I coming here I am like yes, I have blacksmithing next period. I go in and I just make stuff. I was how I made my Mother's Day gift for my mother. I made her a hook," Emery said.

Jeff Chase, an agricultural specialist, teaches the class in hopes to students can continue to learn the skill here for years to come.

"Kids really wanting to come and do this for two hours a day is just a testament that there's a need for this type of stuff," Chase said.

Nine of Maine’s most rural and disadvantaged schools to receive seven years of support for Maine’s next generation of leaders

AUGUSTA – GEAR UP Maine RISE is thrilled to announce the selection of schools participating in the 2023-2030 grant cycle, marking a significant step towards developing and growing the next generation of Maine leaders. Through strategic partnerships with schools, postsecondary institutions, educators, families, students, and organizations, GEAR UP Maine RISE is dedicated to providing college and career preparation and opportunities to the state’s most rural and disadvantaged school districts.

The selected schools embody the spirit of GEAR UP Maine RISE’s mission to address the needs of under-resourced rural schools, demonstrating a commitment to academic excellence, enhancing career readiness, and empowering students from all backgrounds to achieve their full potential. Each school will receive tailored support and resources aimed at equipping students with the skills and knowledge necessary for success in higher education and the careers to which they aspire.

Mandy Kilcollins, school counselor for Fort Fairfield Middle/High School in Aroostook County shares that her district is extremely thankful to have been chosen as a GEAR UP Maine RISE school for the current grant. She said “as it is with many districts currently, budgets are tight, meaning that programs and/or activities have been cut or not provided in the way they had been in the past. With the assistance of GEAR UP Maine RISE, we have already been able to provide a unique experience of taking a group of Juniors on several college tours. Our goal over the next several years is to continue to show our students the endless possibilities and pathways of post-secondary education, and to assist our students in reaching their goals whatever they may be.”

“We are thrilled to welcome these schools to the GEAR UP Maine RISE family,” said Debbie Gilmer, Project Director of GEAR UP Maine RISE. “We firmly believe that the GEAR UP Maine RISE grant is not just an investment in our schools; it’s an investment in Maine’s economy and future workforce. By providing college and career preparation and opportunities to our state’s most rural and disadvantaged school districts, we are laying the foundation for a stronger, more prosperous Maine for generations to come.”

GEAR UP Maine RISE staff has been visiting schools this spring to spread awareness about the program and encourage students to participate in the activities and supports made available to them by this grant.

The participating schools for the 2023-2030 grant cycle are as follows:

Maine Academy of Natural Sciences
Skowhegan Middle School
Skowhegan High School
Piscataquis Community Secondary School
Upper Kennebec Valley Jr/Sr School
East Grand School
Fort Fairfield Middle/High School
Katahdin Middle/High School
Stearns Jr/Sr High School

Popular majors among modern college students

College students' choice of majors can set them on a path toward rewarding and lucrative careers. Though a career may not be foremost on the minds of students as they graduate high school and inch closer to the start of college, choice of major merits consideration, even among students who have yet to receive their high school diplomas.

Many college students enroll in school as undeclared, while others may pick a major without realizing what it requires and which career path it might set them on. That might explain why it's so common for college students to switch majors. Though data indicating how many students switch majors is somewhat dated, one study from the U.S. Department of Education indicated about one in five students changed their majors at least once while pursuing a bachelor's degree. With that in mind, students may want to consider some popular majors as they try to determine which path to take in college. According to the National Center for Education Statistics, more than half of the 2.1 million bachelor's degrees awarded at United States colleges and universities in the 2020-21 school year were concentrated in six fields of study. In addition, the NCES reports that the following are the six most popular degrees from that academic year.

- 1. Business: Almost one in five bachelor's degrees awarded in 2020-21 were in the field of business.
- 2. Health professions: This field accounted for 13 percent of all bachelor's degrees awarded in 2020-21. Common specializations include health sciences, health care administration, nursing, and sports medicine.

- 3. Social sciences and history: NCES data indicates nearly one in 10 students majored in a social science in 2020-21. This includes specializations such as history, political science and sociology.
- 4. Engineering: Demand for engineers is expected to rise in the coming decades, and that should bode well for the 126,000 students who earned bachelor's degrees in engineering in 2020-21.
- 5. Biological and biomedical sciences: Bachelor's degrees awarded in biological and biomedical sciences increased by 46 percent between the 2010-11 and 2020-21 school years.
