A. School Highlights - Presented by Heidi Gasca, Superintendent/CEO

The summer and start of the school year have been highly successful and eventful, with the school anticipating reaching the 2,000 student enrollment mark, thanks in large part to the work of the admissions team, specifically mentioning Nick Romo for his efforts in retention.

The school kicked off the year with an "invigorating" professional development (PD) day themed "Go for the Gold," emphasizing Olympic-level grit and perseverance. Staff expertise was leveraged for successful sessions, including a hands-on presentation on Artificial Intelligence (AI) and a scavenger hunt to enhance use of the Google Suite.

Academically, the school received a major boost in morale and recognition, earning a spot in the top 40% of high schools in the U.S. News & World Report rankings—a success attributed to both the secondary and elementary programs. Recent state test scores confirmed the school's focused efforts, showing significant growth in various student subgroups.

Programmatically, the Special Education team is managing a large influx of approximately 60 new students with IEPs. Meanwhile, the high school leadership team secured a grant for an all-expenses-paid trip to the Sphere Summit 2025 in Washington, D.C., to study civil discourse and curiosity in teaching.

A strong commitment to parent education and building the family-teacher-student relationship remains a core passion. This commitment was evident in the highly successful back-to-school events, which were so well-attended that the main event in Brea outgrew its facility. Finally, the presentation closed by celebrating Nick Romo, acknowledging his historical dedication and recent pivotal role in admissions as a versatile, problem-solving leader.

B. Student Testimonials - Student Leadership

The student testimonials from Vice President Emma Espinoza (10th grade) and President Preston (12th grade) highlighted two primary benefits of Excel Academy: a strong sense of community and unparalleled flexibility/freedom.

Emma, who joined four years ago after her previous school lacked a sense of community, spoke highly of the connection and support she immediately felt.

She describes Excel not just as a school but as a "family that supports you" and has your back, cheering you on through challenges. She loves the school's flexibility regarding curricular paths and credits the Student Leadership Club for opening doors, teaching her leadership skills, and continuously preparing her for the future.

Preston, who has been with the school since 8th grade, emphasizes the freedom that the unique school model provides. He states that the freedom is "insane," allowing him to pursue extracurricular activities and even hold a job since 10th grade—things he says he couldn't have done in a traditional environment.

He highlighted his three years in the Leadership Class as the "coolest part," noting that it has fostered the deepest connection between himself, his classmates, and teachers through open discussion, significantly contributing to his personal growth and public speaking skills.

C. CliftonLarsonAllen LLP (CLA) Governance Entrance Letter - Presented by Heidi Gasca, Superintendent/CEO

IX. Board Comments

A. Comments

The board meeting was deemed highly reassuring and comforting, celebrating a successful start to the year marked by anticipated enrollment nearing 2,000 students. This growth, largely credited to the admissions team and the efforts of staff like Nick Romo, was recognized alongside a newfound academic honor: the high school's placement in the top 40% of the U.S. News & World Report rankings. Leadership, particularly Superintendent Heidi, was praised for fostering a rare, effective partnership between the educational and business sides of the school, with the latter (led by Joe) ensuring financial clarity for the board.

The highlight of the meeting was hearing from student leaders, who universally praised the school's flexibility and strong sense of community. However, the board acknowledged the reality that "the bad news is we're growing," pointing out that the addition of 17 new staff members significantly increases the workload (emails, issues, complaints) for department managers. The board urged leadership to address this potential strain by considering whether current managers need additional support to effectively handle the increased volume that comes with expansion. The meeting concluded with gratitude for the entire staff and a vote to approve CliftonLarsonAllen for the upcoming fiscal and educational audits.

X. CEO Comments

A. Comments

Heidi began by sincerely thanking the board for their unwavering support, recognizing that their background as educators enables them to understand the school's "pain points" and celebrations alike.

She emphasized that the successful management of the school's recent growth is a testament to the "magnificent teamwork" of the staff, acknowledging that starting the school year required everyone to truly "come together."

Above all, Heidi reaffirmed her core philosophy: she will never allow the school to grow so large that they lose connection with the students. Her commitment is to ensure that every teacher maintains a meaningful, daily impact on their students and families. She concluded by expressing deep fulfillment in the fact that, despite external global issues, their school is consistently "making an impact" through hard work.

XI. Closing Items

A. Adjourn Meeting

There being no further business to be transacted, and upon motion duly made, seconded and approved, the meeting was adjourned at 10:26 AM.

Respectfully Submitted,
W. Hall
