A. From the Board

Mr. Bañuelos wished everyone a great 2019. He spoke about attending the Grand Opening of the Aquatic Center.

Dr. Brann said that he's ready to get going now that the holidays are over.

B. From the CEO

Dr. Wunder reminded everyone about the upcoming Joint Board Meeting with Wiseburn Unified School District on February 28 from 5-8pm, at which Dr. Vicki Barber will give a report on special education, and Cynara Lilly will give a presentation on Strategic Communications.

C. Presentation: State Accountability - CA Dashboard Review

Ms. Gloria White, Da Vinci's Data & Accountability Coordinator, gave a presentation on the California Schools Dashboard, the new state accountability system, which is live and public. Ms. White had previously presented local indicators to the Board; these are the state indicators. The new Dashboard's goal is to replace the single digit Academic Performance Index (API) with a more diverse, complex system.

- The Dashboard is designed to support local decision making and the LCAP process, which are aligned with the state standards.

- The Dashboard is based on a color system. The colors indicate change; each school's colors will change each year due to factors like enrollment.

- New on the Dashboard is the College & Career Indicator, with eight CCI measures (IB exams; AP exams; Grade 11 Summative Assessments; Career Technical Education completion; College Credit Courses; a-g completion; the new State Seal of Biliteracy; the new Leadership/Military Science). However, Da Vinci has an expanded view of school quality and does not participate in all programs measured (e.g., AP and IB).

- State Indicators are: Academic Performance (CAASPP ELA and CAASPP Math; ELPAC scores; College & Career Indicator); Academic Engagement (Chronic K-8 Absence; 4-year cohort Graduation Rates (grades 9-12); Conditions & Climate (Suspension Rates)

Ms. White wrapped up her presentation saying that the Dashboard is no longer a bar that schools have to achieve, but is a tool to help evaluate practices, one of many tools like the Student Accountability Report Card (SARC), LCAPs, and Schoolzilla and other processes and ongoing evaluations such as school spending.

Ms. White said that because the Dashboard is so new, the administration hasn't had a chance to sit with school leaders and examine it yet.

The State Board of Education approved the indicators on the Dashboard. Dr. Brann mentioned missing the API, which used to be published in the media.

Mr. Mora wanted to know how we will use the information to help us improve. Dr. Ring said that two areas now being looked at are attendance and discipline. Reporting is now being required in these areas in a new and more in-depth way, and these changes in data reporting will be reflected over time. More attention is being paid to attendance and behavior, and this data will help to evaluate interventions and responses.

After more discussion, Dr. Brann thanked Ms. White.

D. Presentation: Organizational Effectiveness Report

Dr. Wunder introduced Mr. Richard Greenberg, saying that the CMO was impacted by many events last year, and that the CMO was understaffed. In an effort to best support the school sites, Mr. Greenberg was asked to evaluate the CMO's organizational effectiveness.

Mr. Greenberg began by saying there were about 8-10 projects/events that were time-consuming, detail-oriented, and necessary that were not planned for last year. While CMO staff were very dedicated, their emotional commitment was being challenged, which could result in apathy and CMO staff attrition.

Mr. Greenberg's aim was to identify the best way to organize the CMO within budget constraints so that it can best support the schools. He conducted multiple interviews among the CMO staff and school leadership, and follow-up surveys.

Key findings:

1. CMO leaders take pride in their work
2. The current CMO structure, roles, and resources are inadequate and having a negative impact on CMO morale
3. There is a danger of CMO leaders moving from commitment to apathy
4. The CEO's leadership & founding contributions are recognized. The CMO's identity is not.
5. There is no consensus; there are too many priorities and too many projects

Recommendations

1. Trust and learn from what got you here
2. Align organization structure to Da Vinci Schools vision for continued growth
3. Be one CMO
4. Adopt & practice project management and process improvement methodologies & tools
5. Practice less is more. Establish a risk-free environment to be able to make suggestions.

Mr. Greenberg also recommended addressing understaffing in certain CMO departments and implementing a project cost-benefit analysis group in the future.

Mr. Lofton asked if the survey would be run annually. Mr. Greenberg responded that there were no plans to. Mr. Lofton said that a baseline can be established with continued future data.

Mr. Greenberg felt there should be a dedicated group to determine the cost and benefit of new projects before they get started.

He gave a recommended support framework, with students at the center, radiating out through school sites and CMO departments.

Mr. Meath appreciated the study and was pleased the Board identified the resources to conduct it. He looks forward to the implementation. Ms. Morgan said that it was nice to hear the CMO leaders had the opportunity to voice their concerns. Dr. Brann appreciated Mr. Greenberg's work and expertise, and said that he thinks Da Vinci should continue the study over time. The Board thanked Mr. Greenberg.

B. Meath arrived.

E. Financial Update

Dr. Wunder and Mr. Mayotte co-presented the financial update, speaking about trends and projections.

Each school must meet a cash reserve requirement for charter renewal four years from now.

Each school has restricted funds in their budget which must be spent.
The budget is healthy.

Financial projections can change based on:

- Enrollment/ADA
- Special education costs like non-public school placements
- Legal costs
- Outside services and consultants
- Unanticipated expenses/over-spending (facilities like the gym)
- Increased fundraising

Financial Outlook:

Certain costs (supplies, outside services, and operating expenses) as a percentage of budget, show improvement after moving into an expensive facility. Without changes, DV is financially feasible, although there are certain programs and schools that need corrections.

Dr. Brann asked if a charter school can join with the school district to get a "trans" loan, and was informed that it cannot.

Mr. Bañuelos spoke about the need to mitigate energy costs.

Mr. Mora inquired about XQ funds. Mr. Mayotte said that there are two items on the evening's agenda to close out the Wiseburn-authorized RISE High which would allow him to transfer the funds into the current RISE High account. Currently, Da Vinci funds are being used to run RISE (payroll, etc.), affecting Da Vinci cash flow.

Dr. Wunder said that expenses will go up in the future, but that he is optimistic that we will be able to avoid problems.

Mr. Mora asked about the projected fundraising. Dr. Wunder said that while charitable funds are easier to obtain for specific programs, it's extremely difficult to get funds for operating expenses.

Mr. Mora asked Mr. Mayotte to include a reserve line and percentage in his figures.

Discussion about projections ensued.

Mr. Bañuelos asked about the "consultant" budget line projection. Mr. Mayotte clarified the name of the line should be "outside services," (i.e. Kelly Services, NPS, etc.).

Mr. Mayotte also spoke about the Audited Financials. The auditor will provide a final draft in February or March.

G. Counselor Pay Scale

B. Meath seconded the motion.

Dr. Brann said that he was expecting a proposal before an agreement or MOU, citing the previous Board meeting at which Dr. Weatherford gave a presentation on the Alder GSE program.

Dr. Wunder offered to bring back the agreement in February if it is not what it appears.

Further discussion resulted in the Board voting on a modified agenda item of a single planning year at no cost to Da Vinci Schools.
