C. Refinancing of the CPA

Presentation from Ken Blacklow, Chairman of Bronx Property Holding Company (entity that owns building of the CPA)

- When the building was built, it was financed through a fundraising mechanism called New Market Tax Credit

- Because of the state of the bond market, the money was raised at low rate

- At end of the 7 year period, school would be forgiven for large sum of cost

- $13M project; after refinancing with the New Market Tax Credit, $3-5M gets forgiven

- New financing of the building has to happen by 2018

- Need to come up with a project plan for refinancing

- Corporation was a 501c2 when building was built

- Law has changed; 501c2 is no longer tax-free

- Pro bono counsel recommends:

- 1) have school become owner

- 2) form a new 501c3 (takes up to a year)

- 3) form a new LLC of which the school be the sole member (takes a couple of weeks)

- Recommendation is to move forward with #3: form a new LLC of which the school be the sole member. The reason is that if something were to go wrong (e.g. no charter renewal), the city couldn't retake the building and the bond holders would be able to retain ownership

- Another recommendation is to refinance sooner instead of waiting until 2018; there are no penalties and the school can take advantage of current low interest rates. Also, prior to doing to charter renewal, you're not in flux

- As a board, it's recommended to retain counsel and vote quickly per Orrick through the Lawyer's Alliance

- Bronx Property Holding Company would resign as board members by 31 December; BLCS Board of Trustees to stay on if need be. Low Income Investment Fund (LIIF) to be notified
