C. School Connections

The board retreat included a memorable outing hosted by Vetri Mobile Kitchen. Jackson and Muñoz shared highlights of their experience, accompanied by photos showcasing the event. Vetri Mobile Kitchen hosts free cooking classes for the community. Espinosa attended one of the free cooking classes with her daughters and noted the strong turnout from the community, reflecting the program's wide appeal.

Muñoz provides also shares that Vetri programming for students continues to make an impact in classrooms. Students in grades 3-5 participated in mini-lessons led by a Vetri Mobile Chef, where the chef cooked alongside the class, creating an interactive learning experience.

Burgos provided updates from the School Advisory Committee (SAC). During the last meeting, SAC addressed concerns about recess during inclement weather. In response to the increased frequency of such days, the school has developed an indoor recess schedule to keep students active and engaged. This schedule will take effect in Trimester 2. The committee also reviewed the professional development calendar and the assignments for Half-Day Data Days.

A recent misunderstanding regarding an administrative directive for grade teams to collaborate on report card data review and entry has been resolved, with clarification provided to staff. Additionally, in response to staff feedback, furniture has been added to staff bathrooms, and procedures for bathroom access during dismissal have been clarified. Espinosa expressed gratitude for the indoor recess initiative, emphasizing the importance of recess for students' well-being. She also commended the SAC for its effectiveness in addressing concerns and resolving problems, highlighting its role in fostering a supportive school community.

Garcia followed up on the 6th-grade concerns raised during the previous board meetings.
