V. MetCPA Principal Presentations

A. Principal Presentations

Kentia arrived to board meeting. Kentia discussed her key school design elements. Kentia's first element is the AP Capstone Program. The program is divided in two parts AP Seminar and AP. The second design element is Integrated Curriculum. This shows students challenging each other and how to solve real world problems. The third school design is social emotional learning. This curriculum shows the how to track social development, restorative practices. The fourth element is Mastery Based Learning. This allows scholars to be able to articulate standards of learning. Kentia presented a five-year implementation overview. Kentia stated that she believes in shared leadership.

Alexandra arrived to the board meeting. She reviewed her agenda. Her goal is to be able to prepare scholars for college, exhibiting pride in their culture and school community and engaging families. Her school design has three key points: responsive instruction, positive culture and family engagement. She is seeking to receive feedback from families about learning and school community. She then went into her goals for the three items that make up school design. Her first goal is to have 90% of MetCPA scholars take at least one AP course throughout the 4 years of learning at MetCPA. Responsive instruction, in her opinion, involves high leverage practices, culturally relevant curriculum, internal assessments and testing. Positive culture is very important to her. She wants to ensure that MetCPA scholars can answer the questions "Who are we?" and "What is important to us?" Elaborating on her goal for family engagement is showing consistent growth in attendance for family events. Making a family engagement calendar early on to ensure that we are connecting to parents and meeting their needs. Alexandra would also like to conduct surveys to parents to learn how to best support parents and families. She then opened it up to parents.

VIII. Board Member Interviews

A. Interview

Aaron stated that Leslie was interviewed over the phone.

Leslie began by expressing his interest in joining and how he heard about the position. He began his career in the corporate world. Then went back to school as he realized that he wanted to do more to impact his community. He stated that the arts really helped to shape the boys in the school in which he taught. He spoke about the community impact. He then left education to start a nonprofit organization. He specifically worked with parent involvement and education and that in urban areas, a barrier is presented to families. He stated that accounting to a study there are 6 levels of parental engagement. He spoke about parental shared leadership strategies and the history in order to help address the preparation into college. He then spoke about the outcomes of the involvement, which is a more organic fit and presents as a buffer between the parents and the school. Then then moved on to Vassar college as there was little funding to continue his nonprofit work. His work during this time was to really engage and educate families to ensure that success at the higher education level was possible. He is interested in being on the board because he believes in supporting the school with the vision it wants to set forth. He has a lot of relationships and a lot to offer in regards to higher education.
