Human Resources- Promoting and supporting staff and teacher morale.docx

Human Resources and principals promote and support staff and teacher morale. This is crucial for any organization to ensure their employees are satisfied and engaged in their work. We do the following things at TEACH Public Schools:

1. Conduct regular surveys: We conduct regular surveys to gauge the level of job satisfaction among your staff and teachers. This helps identify the areas that need improvement and the issues that are affecting morale. We use this feedback to create action plans to address the issues. Ms. Brionna Williams our HR manager is working on the survey that will go out this June. We conduct one every June.
2. Build a positive work culture: We encourage a positive work culture by creating opportunities for staff and teachers to collaborate, share ideas, and work together to achieve common goals. We recognize and celebrate individual and team achievements to boost morale. Every year we issue staff appreciation and recognition certificates to all employees from the HR department. All employees will receive a certificate during staff appreciation week this May 8th to May 12th. I have also gathered sponsors to provide food for our staff on Monday May 8th to kick off staff appreciation week and Friday May 12th to end appreciation week.
3. Provide opportunities for professional growth: We provide opportunities for professional growth, such as training, workshops, and conferences. This can help staff and teachers feel valued and invested in their careers. This improves their skills and knowledge, making them more effective in their roles.
4. Support work-life balance: We support staff and teachers' work-life balance by providing flexible work schedules, paid time off, and other benefits that help them manage their personal and professional lives. We have mental health weeks each semester and this upcoming year we will have mental health days.
5. Offer competitive compensation and benefits: We offer competitive compensation and benefits packages that reflect the value of our staff and teachers. This includes salary, healthcare benefits, retirement plans, and other perks that make our organization an attractive place to work. We have offered competitive raises every year for the past couple of years and the plan is to continue this.
6. Foster open communication: We create an environment that fosters open communication between management and staff/teachers. Encourage feedback and suggestions from our employees and address any concerns or issues promptly. I am at the schools regularly meeting with staff, walking the sites, and engaging with employees.

In summary, promoting and supporting staff and teacher morale is something we do on a regular basis at TEACH Public Schools. It focuses on building a positive work culture, providing professional growth opportunities, supporting work-life balance, offering competitive compensation and benefits, fostering open communication, and developing a recognition program. Implementing these strategies have helped create a more engaged and satisfied team that is invested in the success of the organization.

FIRST AMENDMENT TO MANAGEMENT SERVICES AGREEMENT

THIS FIRST AMENDMENT TO MANAGEMENT SERVICES AGREEMENT (the “First Amendment”) is made as of this day of April, 2023 (the “Execution Date”), by and between TEACH Inc., a California nonprofit corporation (“Manager”), and TEACH Las Vegas, a Nevada nonprofit corporation operating a charter school of the same name (“School”) (collectively, the “Parties”).

Recitals

WHEREAS, the Parties entered into a Management Services Agreement dated March 21, 2021, to establish a relationship in which Manager, a nonprofit charter school management organization, provides School, a nonprofit Nevada charter school, with a variety of management services in exchange for payment of a service fee equivalent to a specified percentage of School’s gross revenues received from the State of Nevada in per-pupil funding per month;

WHEREAS, the Management Services Agreement provides in Section 6(c) that during the year prior to School’s first day of school operations and through the succeeding first three school years of School’s operations, School shall only be obligated to pay fifty percent (50%) of the service fee, if payment of the full fee would impose cash flow difficulties, provided that deferred fees are repaid to Manager once cash flow allows, which shall in no event be later than the end of the first Charter Contract term;

WHEREAS, through the first two years of School’s operations, the 2021-22 and 2022-23 school years, School has had difficulty covering its obligation to pay fifty percent (50%) of the full service fee, and is still experiencing cash flow difficulties that threaten its fiscal stability and continued operational success;

WHEREAS, the Parties agree that School’s long term fiscal stability and ability to fiscally prioritize retaining and investing in its core teaching operations are of great, mutual importance; and

WHEREAS, Manager is willing to forego and otherwise modify the amount of service fees due to it under the Management Services Agreement to ensure School’s stability and long term success;

NOW THEREFORE, on behalf of themselves and their respective successors and assigns, the Parties agree to and execute this First Amendment to Management Services Agreement, in consideration of the covenants and agreements set forth herein, as follows:

3. YEAR TWO SERVICE FEE MODIFICATION. One hundred percent (100%) of the total service fee attributable to School’s second year of operations, the 2022-23 school year, is hereby conditionally waived by Manager such that School has no further obligation to pay any service fee amounts attributable to the 2022-23 school year during the Term of the Management Services Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the full amount of the 2022-23 school year service fee shall become

Assessments Administered

We use two nationally normed benchmarks assessments, iReady and NWEA, for two primary reasons:

1. We can use our best results for consideration at renewal along with the state required test – the California Assessment of Student Progress (CAASPP), also known as the Smarter Balanced Assessment System (SBAC);
2. Both tests help us predict how students will likely score on the spring state level test (SBAC/ CAAASP) and shows us progress at intervals during the year.

Board Meeting 4/26: TEACH Tech Principal’s Report

The Report Below Includes the Following:

1. Highlights and growth areas of our academic program.
2. An update on teacher morale, engagement, and development.
3. An update on the social emotional well being of students, and how our team is supporting student behavior and engagement.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Implementing grade level and above text complexity in all texts placed in front of students in all classes. - Implementing clear “What to do” directions (directions that are observable, concrete, sequential, and specific). - Implementing extended opportunities for evidence based writing in all content areas. - Implementing consistent rounds of formative assessment using our “collect, reveal, and use the data” cycle rolled out in the Winter Professional development series. - From our 2nd round of state benchmark testing to our 3rd round, we grew in ELA: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 9th grade - 25% to 38% above standard - 10th grade - 30% to 53% above standard 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Ensuring that we are leveraging our curriculum in ways that are consistent, effective, and implemented with fidelity across all classes. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Currently working with our CMO team to review curriculum choices for the upcoming school year, align curriculum across campuses, and provide ample training for staff. - Effectively accommodating access to learning for Emerging Bilinguals. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Currently working with CMO team to build a potential new role, Emerging Bilingual Coordinator, to lead robust designated and integrated English Language Development Support. - Shifting the cognitive lift from the teachers to the students consistently through student choice, self assessment, and increased rigor in all assignments and assessments.

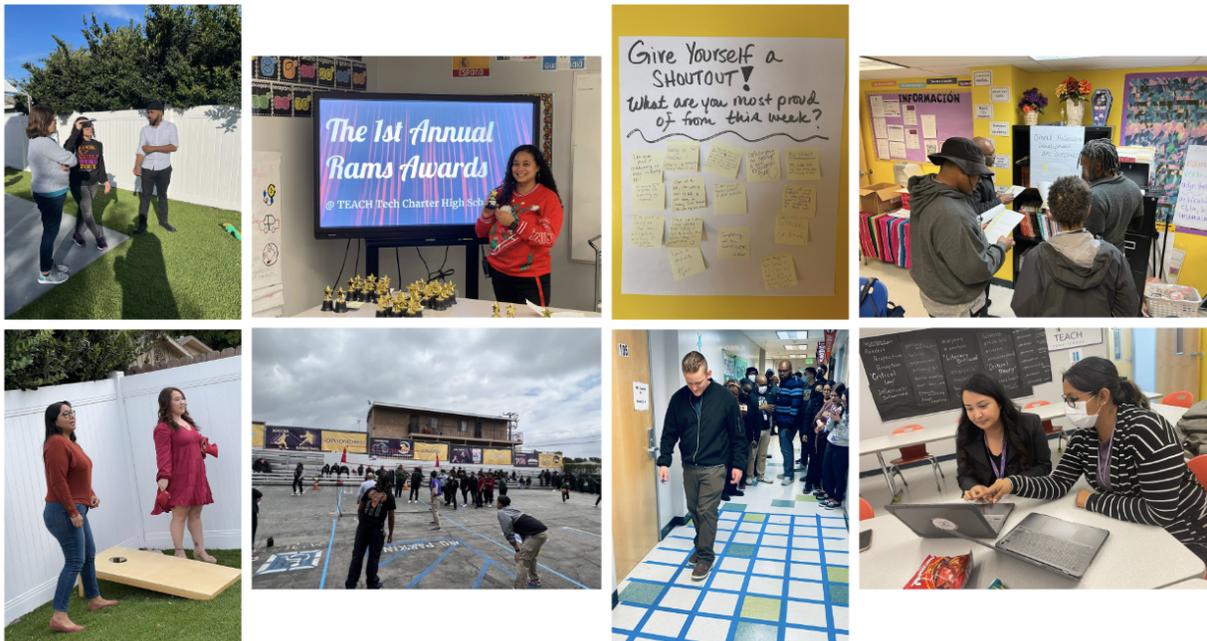

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 11th grade - 38% to 57% above standard - From our 2nd round of state benchmark testing to our 3rd round, we grew in Math: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 11th grade - 30% to 35% above standard 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Leveraging professional development focused on centering lessons around inquiry. - From our 2nd round of state benchmark testing to our 3rd round, we declined in Math: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 9th grade - 10% to 5% above standard - 10th grade - 11% to 5% above standard <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Currently revisiting math curriculum and training for staff for the 23-24 school year. Actively hiring for a revamped math department, specifically for younger grades (9th and 10th).

Along with these areas, we are working diligently to support our 11th grade students towards achieving “standard met” or “standard exceeded” on the upcoming California Assessment of Student Performance and Progress (CAASPP) in May. In our plan, all 11th grade students are taking practice tests each week in their English and math classes, reviewing the results, and receiving/participating in instruction based on their individual needs. We are also pulling students who are on the cusp of meeting grade level standards- based on our practice tests that we have taken across the school year for small group instruction led by our assistant principal, Dr. Garcia for math, and myself for English. Finally, our leadership and counseling team made individual phone calls to each 11th grade family over Spring Break to chat a bit about the importance of the CAASPP test, and the implications for college and beyond.

2. Teacher morale on our campus is high. There are a lot of exciting things happening on our campus, and it just feels like a fun place to be for teachers and staff alike. If I had to describe our team culture currently, I would describe it as relentlessly optimistic. On our most recent Panorama survey (WINTER 2022) which asked our teaching team to give feedback on a number of areas, we saw the following:

Category/Question	% Favorable	National Percentile
Perceptions of faculty and staff relationships with school leaders.	87%	80th-99th percentile

Perceptions of the school leadership's effectiveness.	76%	80th-99th percentile
Perceptions of the amount and quality of professional growth and learning opportunities available to faculty and staff.	72%	80th-99th percentile

Over the last couple of months, we have seen our staff outside at lunch and nutrition much more often with students interacting, eating lunch with, playing volleyball and basketball with, and just spending time together. The students really love this, and it has been great to see. We have also been spending time in self appreciation and building one another up as we learn from each other. Our time in professional development has been spent teaming, unpacking our professional development scope and sequence, practicing new reading and writing strategies, wrestling with text complexity, and practicing giving clear “what to do” directions, leveraging wait time, and ensuring that students own the cognitive lift in the classroom. We have also been spending time reviewing how to address harmful language on our campus \(ie. the “N-word”\) in ways that are both honoring of those harmed, and restorative for those causing harm. Since November, our leadership team has offered optional “collaborative planning” each day after school as a space where teachers can come to plan with one another, ask for support from our leadership and/or counseling teams, review observation feedback with their coach, plan assessments, and more. Every teacher on campus has attended at least once, and many folks attend every week. Heading into the break in December, we held our first annual “Rams Awards” (affectionately known as the “Rammies”) to celebrate our entire staff. Each team member received a special customized award that showed appreciation for being a part of our tight knit team. Finally, our team has grown close and many folks attended our first staff party at my home hosted by my wife and I. It was a great time to play games, break bread, and get to know one another outside of the classroom and campus.

3. In general, students report feeling valued on our campus. Some students are still wrestling with social anxiety, depression, and stress that is lingering from surviving a global pandemic. This shows up in some students isolating themselves during large group times (lunch & nutrition). Overall, though, most students have really benefited from being back in person and socializing with their peers. We had our highest ever turnout for sports and clubs on campus, and students are consistently attending after school tutoring in their classes and taking advantage of the many supports that our campus offers. Specifically, our counseling team offers the following supports:

Support	Description
1 to 1 Meetings	Counselors check in with each student on their caseload once a semester to talk about grades, social emotional health, involvement in school activities, and long term planning.
Referral Process	If a teacher notices that a student is “off” or feeling down, they refer the student to counseling via email, groupme, or a hall pass. Students can also refer themselves or others to counseling.
Recurring Check-Ins	For students who have identified trauma or pertinent mental health needs, our counseling team has recurring check-ins on a daily, weekly, or biweekly basis to set goals, offer coping skills, and practice independence.
Dignity Health	For any students who are in need of therapy or more traditional counseling, we are partnered with Dignity Health to provide that support via referral.
Aadap	For any students who are dealing with drug or alcohol abuse, or are searching for prevention, we are partnered with Aadap to provide support via referral.
Mental Health Corner	We have a designated space in the counseling office that allows students a designated time to recalibrate and reset in order to continue on with their day in a healthy manner.

Student voice is very important to us, as they are our key stakeholder on our campus. Students are invited to attend lunch with the principal each Thursday, and we have on average, about 20 students who attend each week to share ideas to improve our school and community, ask questions about college and career readiness, and just spend time with our staff. Students also have taken ownership over much of our recruiting process for incoming 8th graders and have volunteered to be on our student panels to share about their experiences as students here at TEACH Tech. Along with this, we have begun hiring for the upcoming school year, and a big part of that process has been an hour-long interview for each candidate with a group of students. Following that interview, candidates complete a sample lesson that is scored and given feedback on by students. Students feel appreciative that they have such a strong influence over our hiring process.

Behaviorally, we are committed to restorative practices at TEACH Tech. When someone on our campus (adult, child, or otherwise) causes harm to another person, group, or community, the restorative process begins.

- The first step of the restorative process involves one on one meetings with all parties involved. This one on one meeting is led by a member of our leadership team or campus aide team (Dr. Garcia, Ms. Willis, or Mr. Menduke), and is centered on truly listening to each party involved. For students, sometimes prior to this meeting, and sometimes during this meeting, we leverage a reflection form which allows the student to be more reflective and gather their thoughts in a more concrete fashion. The goal of these meetings is really two fold: 1) to make sure that each party feels heard, and 2) to make sure that each party is ready to mend harm through (as necessary) taking accountability, making commitments moving forward, and mending community harm.

- Once both parties have met with the facilitator, the facilitator leads a meeting between all parties involved. These meetings are always held in a 1:1 setting with a facilitator to ensure that power dynamics are equal. Facilitators are sure to name bias and privilege that exist in the room, and also do their best to eliminate any concerns of “taking sides” during this meeting. The meeting begins by the facilitator walking through the process that the meeting will follow. That process is:
 - One party will share the harm that has been caused to them, and/or the harm that they think they may have caused to the other person, group, or community. The other party listens intently. They may take notes.
 - The other party shares back what they heard the first person say. The facilitator adds on anything that may have been missed, but prompts both parties to do so themselves.
 - Both parties switch roles.
 - One party will then share what they can take accountability for, and (as needed) makes a commitment(s) moving forward to ensure that no more harm is caused. The other party listens intently. They may take notes.
 - The other party shares back what they heard the first person say. The facilitator adds on anything that may have been missed, but prompts both parties to do so themselves.
 - Both parties switch roles.
 - Facilitator closes out with a summary of the discussion, appreciations for both parties, and facilitator commitments as someone who is committed to the success of all sides moving forward.
- After the restorative meeting ends, the facilitator does multiple check backs for all parties involved over the course of the next couple of weeks. These checkbacks are centered around commitments made during the meeting, and pushes all parties to hold themselves and others accountable to ensuring our community is safe.

Moving forward, our team at TEACH Tech is committed to deepening and improving our restorative practices. We are excited to continue learning more about best practices for this model, and are eager to implement initial “circle” protocols (SEL learning practice from) in the upcoming school year to more effectively leverage student and family voice in our campus cultural practices.

TEACH Prep Principal's Report

April 2023

Academic Program:

At TEACH Prep, we are working hard with all the data we have collected this year (iReady, NWEA, IAB's, as well as from our in class summative and formative assessments) to review our teaching strategies and to collaborate with one another to promote student academic growth! We have gotten better acquainted with our platforms and the many resources it provides the teachers. With it, we have been making progress to make informed decisions in the classroom for our students' academic success. For example, knowing which students to group together for small group interventions, which assignments to assign on iReady, for individual students based on the lack of mastery in a given standard, as well as knowing which standards were not met as a whole class to readdress the standard(s) again.

As teachers continue to grow as a team in understanding how all of the platforms work, they are developing a deeper understanding of how to best use the resources to plan out their lessons in the classroom. We hope to improve in being stronger in our planning cycle, checking for understanding from our students, as well as providing the individualized interventions needed to bridge the gap better moving forward.

Morale and Teamwork at TEACH:

Teachers here at TEACH Prep continue to work together in supporting one another in planning, co-teaching, as well as checking up on each other throughout the week. We continue to work closely together with coming up with various ways to address our gaps as well as encouraging students and parents about the importance of coming to school on a regular basis. Everyone is excited about our Attendance Challenge going on right now and each class looks forward to see who is in the lead.

Social-Emotional Well Being of our student:

We support our students social emotional well-being through our Character Pillar each day, encouraging our students to self-reflect, share their feelings as well as working with them to find solutions to their problems through mediation. When a concern is brought up by a teacher it is addressed with the student as well as the parents so everyone is in the loop to support the student. Referrals are made for counseling if either the teacher sees the need or a request is made by the parent/guardian.

Students have been praised for their benchmark results and all the classrooms have posted the ones that have made jumps. Individual conferences have occurred going over their results as well. Just like the teachers, the students are excited about the Attendance Challenge and everyone tries to see if their class is in the lead over the other class to win the prize of the Class Pizza Party!
