II. Governance

A. Training presentation with solicitor, Shawn Kerns

Shawn Kerns made a presentation concerning the Role of the Board at Vida Charter School, for approx. 40 minutes. He noted that the board is to: 1. operate in an oversight management role v. the day to day management which is the responsibility of the executive director 2. conduct board meetings and decision making, maintain minutes, etc., notifying public regarding budget, adopting policies, oversee accountability and budgeting, approve employees hiring/terminations, maintain community relations, adhere to vision of the school, student disciplinary hearings, strategic planning, self assessments, real estate/financing transactions. Public money necessitates open and transparent procedures, and meetings must be advertised a minimum of 2 days prior to meeting. The only exception being that if an immediate decision is required and is acted upon, then a ratification needs to occur in public to cure the private nature of the decision. All meetings are public with the exception of executive sessions which are for personnel matters, litigation issues, training sessions, etc. The board may issue invitations to attend executive sessions, should they wish it. Working sessions are in more relaxed environment and similar to town hall meetings; minutes are required, but no decisions are made. Board retreats/trainings are non-public and may issue invitations to appropriate individuals based upon the topics that the board is referencing; again, no decisions can be made. Boards use retreats/trainings for: strategic plans, brainstorming, school vision work. 3. Legal and Ethical Obligations of the board: It is noted that board members are defined as public officials under charter school law and that no member shall engage in conduct that constitutes a conflict of interest.

A rather long discussion ensued concerning conflict of interest v. recusure. It was decided by the board that the rest of the presentation could be reviewed privately in the essence of time and questions could be e-mailed to Shawn.

D. Marritz made a motion to privately read the rest of Shawn Kern's presentation and to e-mail questions to Shawn.

D. Discuss board committee composition

A. Kittleberger notes that committees are new to Vida as of last year and we are still trying to determine how these committee should operate, who may be members and what are the roles of the committees. Board on Track and best practices are the ultimate goals for the 3 standing board committees: Academic Excellence, Governance and Finance. It is noted in the past that there have been parent and teacher participation in committees. Due to the communication issues that occurred last year, C. Maldonado is instituting changes at the school level that will enable teachers to have direct input/access to the school committees which will then report to the board committees. The purpose is that the board is empowered in an oversight capacity rather than the function/application that teachers can bring to the committee.

C. Maldonado is a member of all committees that directly reports to the board committees. For example: school AE committee is the boots to the ground place for determining how to best improve the education of our students. The board AE committee is the committee that oversees, evaluates and proceeds with ideas that the teachers have outlined. A. Kittleberger noted that all committee meetings are public and for a 1 year term. Executive sessions may occur within the committee meetings at the discretion of the committee chair in which the public is excused for a portion of the meeting and then the public meeting is re-convened. Committee work is a serious commitment and should not be taken lightly and appointees must exhibit skills that are favorable to the committee. There is no exclusion of parents/teachers on committee but must be at the discretion of the committee chair and be well thought out. The committees answer directly to the board and thus the board counts heavily upon their input when making decisions. The finance committee is made up of the following board members: L. Leonard (chair), Sue White, Josef Brandauer. A. Kittleberger requests that the board appoint members to the committee and chairs are to meet with C. Maldonado to propose how the board committees may function as efficiently as possible.
