Pi Day: March 14, 2025

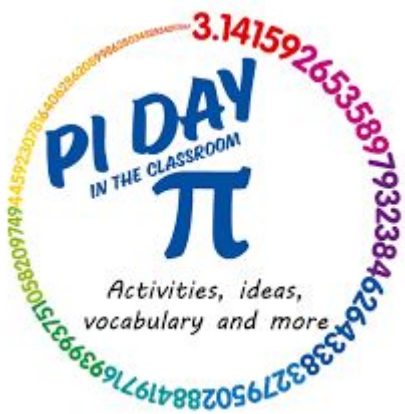

For Grades 3-5:

1. Pi-Tag:
   - Play a game of "Pi Tag" where each student is assigned a number. The "Pi" player (a teacher or student) calls out a number, and students with that number must run or move to a designated spo
2. Pi Recitation Challenge:
   - Challenge students to memorize and recite as many digits of Pi as possible. Offer prizes for those who can recite the most digits.
3. Pi Day Posters:
   - Have students create posters explaining Pi and its significance. They can use images of circles, Pi-related facts, or even draw famous mathematicians like Archimedes.
4. Pi Snack Time:
   - Serve food in the shape of circles, like cookies, pies, or even donuts, and explain the connection to Pi.
5. Pi Math Problems:
   - Give students simple math problems related to circles and Pi, such as calculating the circumference or area of a circle if given the radius.

For Grades 6-8:

1. Pi Memorization Competition:
   - Organize a Pi memorization competition where students try to remember and recite as many digits of Pi as they can. You can make it more challenging by introducing various Pi-related patterns.
2. Pi Day Math Challenge:
   - Provide students with a series of challenges that involve Pi, such as using Pi to calculate the circumference or area of different circles (e.g., a tire, a plate, etc.).
