Items mentioned in open session at the last meeting.
This includes any ideas not presented previously. It is moved and discussed by the members. Example: President states, "We are now ready for the new business of the meeting, which includes the decision about the admission fee for the party. Will someone make a motion so that we may discuss the question?" Member says: "I move that the admission fee for the party be fifty cents." Second member: "I second the motion." President: "It has been moved and seconded that the admission fee for the party be fifty cents. Is there any discussion?" Discussion follows. One member calls "Question," which means that the president must ask, "Are you ready for the question?" (Ready to vote). Or the president acts on personal initiative and, if there are no objections, brings the matter to a vote.
